GTMO's Comedy Relief

Just in case you're wondering, there's still a Marine in the tower and the weapons on the HumVee are not loaded. What was loaded was the dialog that entertained the Marines from

Marine Corps Security Force Company who were treated to a visit from the USO/Comedy Central cast who visited the Northeast Gate Thursday.

Here Lenny Clarke, a "stand up" comic and co-star of the ABC series "The Job" with Denis Leary, gets the feel of riding high with MCSFCo.

Thursday Night GTMO audiences filled the sites of the comedians during their two shows at the Windjammer.

MEET THE PEOPLE -

The primary goal of the Comedy Central Group is to meet with U.S. military members and their families who are actively serving in support of the war on terrorism and to convey the country's appreciation. One of three stops on their journey brought them to our neck of the cacti and coral world to entertain local GTMO residents. The group arrived Tuesday and have spent much of their time visiting with members of the community before the two shows Thursday evening.

(Right) Three members of the group made a stop at W.T. Sampson High School to greet the students and to sign some autographs. pictured here handing out autographed photos are (l-r) Mike Birbiglia, Colin Quinn and Louis Ramey.

TAP Seminar Sept. 23

What is TAP? The Transition Assistance Program seminar was designed by the Department of Defense to smooth the transition of military personnel and family members from government service. It's your best chance for success in the next stage of your life. Whether you're going back to school, or looking for a new career, success requires planning and resources. TAP is designed to help. The key to transition success is knowledge of available services and a firm understanding of how to use them. By law, all transitioning military personnel are required to receive pre-separation counseling no less than 90 days prior to leaving active duty. However, an effective transition requires a lot of planning and action on your part. Consequently, you are strongly

DEFY

Drug Education For Youth

Drug Education For Youth (DEFY) is a self-esteem building program that provides kids with the tools they need to resist drugs, gangs, and alcohol.

A comprehensive, two-phased program, DEFY emphasizes the positive development of the mind body and spirit.

Initially developed by the Drug Demand Reduction Task Force (DDRTF), DEFY is sponsored by the local command and available to youth ages 9-12. In Phase 1, children attend a five-day or eight-day program and get a chance to bond with adult mentors. In addition to beginning drug education, children also engage in a physical fitness challenge and take various local field trips. This challenging, fun-filled week in the summer is followed by a year of mentoring.

Phase II is a school-year-mentoring phase designed to support the training and education received in the first phase. It focuses on the youth's individual development through regularly scheduled activities in which mentors and staff members provide reinforcement through group mentoring and interactive workshops.

Most participants gain a great deal from the DEFY experience. They make lasting friendships and learn a lot about themselves. DEFY focuses on building youngsters' self-image and setting goals. It stresses interpersonal relations, and emphasizes leadership and teamwork. Along the way it raises awareness of the harmful effects of alcohol and other drugs, as well as the dangerous effects of peer pressure to join gangs. The structured curriculum offers education, skill development and physical fitness. DEFY is all about creating positive experiences so that kids will choose healthy alternatives instead of substance abuse and gang involvement.

In essence, the DEFY program provides leadership to kids and thereby strengthens our military communities

Can You Become a Millionaire on Military Pay?

from the Lifelines Services Network

Game shows and lotteries with big cash prizes offer ways to become rich for a lucky few. But most people who dream of becoming a millionaire are better served by reality-based alternatives. Discipline, informed decision making, and perseverance are more likely to help you achieve financial success than are lottery tickets and game shows.

The Fleet and Family Support Center provides classes that offer realistic, practical answers to the questions such as "How does one become a millionaire on military pay"? The center's various Personal Financial Management Program encourages individuals and families to seek out financial education and investment information.

Financial difficulties often result from mismanagement rather than lack of income. If you are struggling to manage your current income, imagine the difficulties you could encounter with a million dollars. The Lifelines Services Network, in conjunction with the FFSC at Naval Submarine Base in Bangor, Washington, offers the following four steps to financial security which you can apply whether your income is one hundred or one million dollars:

Step 1: Keep a Written Budget

The effect of seeing your expenditures in black and white can help you recover 10 percent or more of your pay after taxes. Easily forgotten or ignored items can cause budget blowout. There are a number of ways to keep a budget. Some people prefer computer programs while others like pen and paper. But how you do it isn't as important as getting it done.

Details such as haircuts, school activities, or once-a-year items such as a ball gown are captured here. Over a period of time, and with practice, a written budget becomes a financial history that can help you budget more accurately in the future. You can refer to a budget from the previous year and see what life detail was easily overlooked, and overextended your budget.

Step 2: 70-20-10

Figure out where your money goes and then adjust your budget to fit the 70-20-10 formula. If you do this, you can consider yourself financially stable.

Seventy percent or less of your net monthly income should go to living expenses such as

- | | |
|--------------------------------|------------------------|
| * Mortgage or rent | * Prescription drugs |
| * Groceries | * Pest control |
| * Utilities | * Phone bills |
| * Cable TV, Internet service | * Scheduled haircuts |
| * Car maintenance | * Routine dry cleaning |
| * SGLI or other life insurance | * Gas |
| * Dental care | * Lunch money |

Twenty percent or less of your net monthly income should be spent on indebtedness. This includes car loans, student loans, and credit cards. If you spend 21 to 29 percent of your income to cover your debts, then you are in financial jeopardy. If you spend 30 percent or more on indebtedness, get help immediately. She recommends the following resources:

- * Your command financial specialist
- * Navy Marine Corps Relief Society budget counselor
- * Consumer Credit Counseling Services (CCCS)

Finally, 10 percent or more of your net monthly income should go to savings and investments. In determining whether to put your money in savings or investments, you have to understand the difference. When you invest, you choose to give up a degree of safety and accessibility of your money for the potential of much greater returns.

Step 3: Manage Your Credit

Good credit is a wonderful thing. Bad credit can be devastating. Learn how to calculate your debt-to-income ratio. To do this, divide your total monthly minimum payments by your monthly net income. Lending institutions consider your debt-to-income ratio when deciding on a loan — they want it to be low.

Never pay just the minimum balance due. If you pay only what is requested, you will go deeper in debt. One method of powering up your debt payments is to concentrate on putting any extra income toward one bill while maintaining minimum payments on all the others. When that bill is paid off, close the account and add the money to the minimum payment of another debt. Continue until you've cleared your way to financial freedom.

Step 4: Establish Three Separate Savings Accounts

To be considered a savings account, the account must be safe and liquid. FDIC or NCUA-insured accounts are considered safe. Liquid accounts are those with round-the-clock access.

These three types of accounts are all considered short-term savings:

- * Emergency Savings. As a rule of thumb try to accumulate and maintain the equivalent of three months' net pay to cover emergencies. Even if you have only $25 per month to put aside, you should do so until you have reached your goal.
- * Reserve Savings. Use reserve savings to cover bills you don't pay every month, such as auto insurance, property tax, projected income tax, and back-to-school clothes. Your written budget will come in handy when deciding what items should be in your reserve savings account.
- * Goal-Getter Savings. Develop goals you want to accomplish in the next 12 months and consider them when writing your budget. Use your goal-getter funds to accomplish your goals, such as romantic getaways for Mom and Dad, trips home to visit family, or a holiday spending account.

SOCNAV To Provide New Degree Options for Naval Reserve Community

Naval Reservists, nationwide, pursuing their Associate or Bachelor's degrees have had to deal with their local non-SOCNAV colleges which award little, if any, credit for military experience. Through SOCNAV this will now change.

SOCNAV has been serving the active duty Navy for 15 years, and is now making its first partnership arrangement with the Reserve component. A group of about 90 civilian colleges operating on Navy bases worldwide, SOCNAV provides such benefits as guaranteed course transfer, reduced residency requirements, and maximum credit awarded for military experience. Two SOCNAV colleges, Coastline Community College and Governors State University, have been partners in the Navy's afloat PACE program for several years with thousands of enrollments and hundreds of Sailor graduates. Using the same distance learning methods as they do with PACE, both colleges are now offering their degree programs to Naval Reservists. Both the Coastline and Governors State programs allow up to two-thirds of their degrees to be satisfied with military experience, immediately enabling the student to see "the light at the end of the tunnel".

Coastline Community College offers the choice of a General Studies AA Degree or one of several Rating-Related AA Degrees, including Applied Marine Engineering, Business, Computer Systems, Electronics, Management and several others. Only four courses (12 sh) are needed to satisfy Coastline's residency requirement. These are offered anywhere through distance learning. The remaining requirements can be satisfied with a combination of military experience, courses from other colleges, and testing such as CLEP and DANTES tests. Governors State offers a Bachelor's of Arts Degree in liberal Studies. Their residency requirement is only eight courses, again offered through distance learning. For those interested in both degrees, the Coastline degree will transfer 100% into the Governors State bachelor's degree.

For those Naval Reserve members who are eligible for Montgomery GI Bill - Selected Reserve (MGIB-SR) benefits, they can be used towards payment for courses taken at both institutions.

Brochures describing these degree programs in detail are being distributed to the field and will be available to Naval Reserve Centers nation-wide. The associates brochure for Coastline Community College is titled "SOCNAV, Naval Reservists & CCC" and the bachelor's brochure for Governors State University is titled "SOCNAV, Naval Reservists & GSU".

To get a copy of the CCC brochure, or to get more information on the Coastline AA degrees, contact them by e-mail at militarycounselor@cccd.edu or call toll free at (866) 422-2645. Governors State information can be obtained by e-mail at gsubog@bgu.edu or by calling toll free at (800) 478-8478, ext. 4092.

The Naval Reserve Force point of contact is NCC Paul Dowd, contact him by e-mail at dowd@cnrf.navy.mil or call commercial (504) 678-6649 or DSN 678-6649.

Get Ready To Crack The Books

Getting ready in a hurry. That's the motto of the Burns and Roe team that is working on meeting the mid September deadline for opening the new community library location. Also going into the building is the new home of the Pass and ID office. The building is most recently the home of the Masonic Lodge and was in poor shape prior to the efforts of the Burns and Roe team. New walls, roof, exterior repairs and a fully renovated cooling system will give GTMO a new public building to be proud of. The building is located across from the NEX Gas station on Bay Hill Rd.

New Online Tool Helps Sailors Transition to New Duty Stations

from Center For Career Development Public Affairs

The Navy's leader in career information and interactive customer service, the StayNAVY Web site, recently launched Sponsor Assignment Aid (SAA), a two-way communications tool intended to help commands communicate with newly-reporting Sailors and Officers.

The Sponsor Assignment Aid was originally the focus of Great Lakes Service School Command in an effort to establish initial communications between the gaining command and the new Sailor.

"Service School Command implemented an awesome tool designed to put the Sailor's needs first by helping them establish contact with their new command," said Lt. j.g. Bill Danzi, a spokesman with the Center for Career Development. "The new online resource provided by the StayNAVY Website is designed to support all active duty Sailors and officers and make their transition process between duty stations a smooth one."

All active-duty members who are in receipt of orders can utilize the Sponsor Assignment Aid to request a sponsor and communicate directly with their gaining command. Once the member enters his/her information online, they will receive a tracking number which helps monitor the request. The gaining command will then be asked to provide their command sponsor coordinator contact information to the member.

Before you launch the SAA Wizard, have the following information available: the UIC of your current command; the UIC of your new command; your Detach Date; your Report Date; Emergency Contact Information including First and Last Name, Address, City, State and Country, Phone Number; Leave Information including number of days, Leave Contact Information: Address, City, State and Country, Phone Number; Travel Information including name of commercial carrier and itinerary (if not traveling by Private Owned Vehicle (POV)); and any Special Assistance Requests

The Web-based tool supports all Sailors and officers by providing a 24-hour-a-day Internet communications link between them and their future command.

The platform for this tool is the StayNAVY Website. Since its launch in March 2001, the StayNAVY website has attracted over 2.2 million visitors, including active, reserve and retired Sailors and Officers and their families.

To access the Sponsor Assignment Aid, go to the link, "Request a Sponsor" at www.staynavy.navy.mil.
